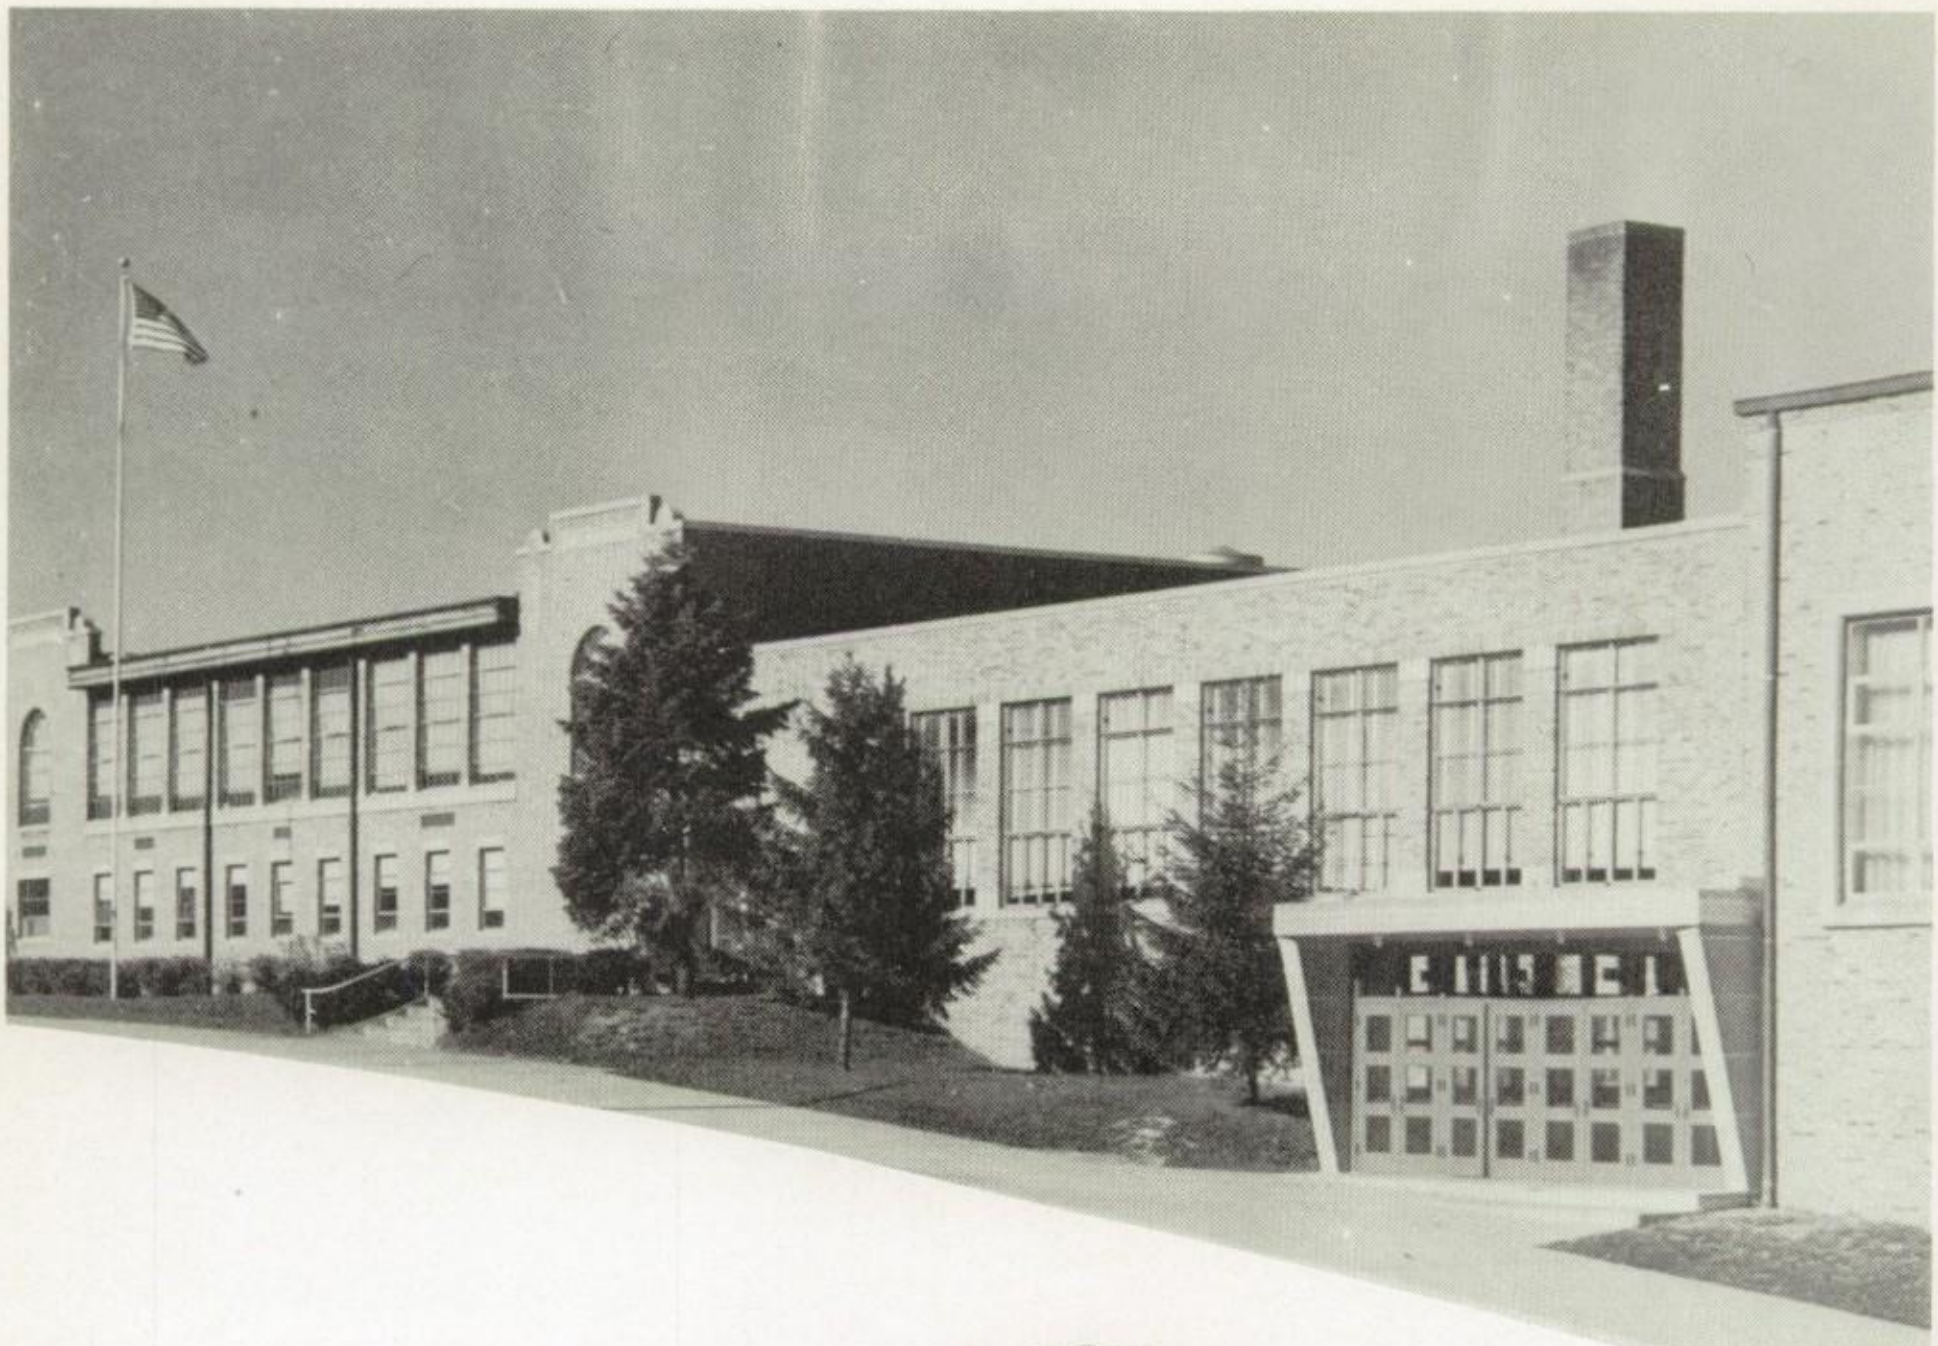
LION '55



Oh, Alma Mater, great and grand, renowned from sea to sea,
Where'er thy daughters and sons shall stand, they'll e'er be true to thee.
The sight of thy majestic halls, with mottoes overstrewn,
The fondest memories recall, that we have ever known.
Tho' very spacious be thy walls, and wide thy playgrounds spread,
And tho' thy adamantine walls tall tower overhead,
Yet all too narrow are thy bounds our fealty to contain,
But hark! the very sky resounds, and echoes our refrain.
Oh dear old Red Lion High, oh dear old Red Lion High,
We'll e'er look back to the Gold and Black
Of dear old Red Lion High.

Foreword

The old lion sat, resting comfortably before his roaring fire, surrounded by his grandcubs. The warm evening made him sleepy and he began to daydream. His dreams were of the past and his schooldays at Red Lion High School. His grandcubs began pestering him for a story and their insistent growling brought him to reality with a start. To silence their demands, he recounted his daydreams. We of the Lion staff have faithfully copied his stories, word by word. He gave an interesting account of student life at our high school and we have used his narrative as the backbone of our '55 yearbook. If you will turn the pages one by one, you will come to page seven, where we began to recount the first of "The Tales of the Lion."

OUR ELDER LIONS

Once upon a time, back in the days of long ago, in a beautiful school sitting on the tip top of a high hill, there were many interesting people.

Busily guiding our young cubs in their daily routines, and hindering them in their mischief, they had a job envied by few. There were the principals, board of directors, faculty, and assistants, known as the administration.

We had some sluggish and irresponsible cubs trying to learn reading, writing, and arithmetic.

The whip was wielded very gently, although sometimes, driven nearly to distraction by our antics, I know the entire administration felt like packing us away in cages and sending us to the zoo. Instead, they guided us patiently and proficiently through our last six casual school years. Their storehouse of treasure was ours.

SENIORS

Way back in the year 1951, in a land of not so very make believe, 145 eager and carefree cubs gamboled up the hill, poked their noses through the door, and began their careers as freshmen in Red Lion High School.

That first year they certainly were an energetic and industrious pack of young lions, scampering over the campus in their excitement; meeting new classmates; winning a prize for their float in the West York pep rally; joining various clubs; and becoming acquainted with new and different studies.

By the time they were sophomores, the cubs settled down a little more, realizing suddenly they were in their first year of senior high . . . new privileges and also new responsibilities.

Then came the exciting junior year, with a taste of work on the Hilltop staff. Some members of the class were elected to the honor societies, and others with dramatic ability were seen in the class play.

Then, all too soon came the year when they were senior lions; a year full of fun and hard work. The Lion, Hilltop, play, dances, games; all the excitement, anxiety, and worry of being a senior . . . finally fulfilled. Yet I'll always remember them as "my little cubs."

COLOSSUS CUBS

Now, my children, this tale is about those fathomless, unequaled cubs, the underclassmen.

To begin with, these young cubs were divided into different groups, the youngest having been the seventh and eighth graders. They teased their older classmates. But that isn't all they did. Oh my no! They worked hard, especially on their floats for the pep parade. They tried so hard to beat the freshmen.

Speaking of the freshmen—they were capable cubs. Many had to become acquainted with the school. They felt lost the first few days but soon knew their way around.

Sophomores were tackling their first year in high school. What a job! Whether they were silly or sophisticated, one could tell they were sophomores.

A jolly bunch, the juniors! They put on their first play, and they helped with the school newspaper—capering cubs in '55 but capable seniors in '56.

These Happy Juniors

The eleventh year was a busy, exciting, and wonderful one for the 191 JUNIORS. These cubs were almost bursting with enthusiasm. They put on their first play, "Ramshackle Inn," sponsored the Valentine dance, and attended their first prom. However, this class was not only interested in the social life. They began to think seriously about a vocation, college, and the future in general. Most of all, though, they were waiting breathlessly until the time came for them to be seniors.

Myles Gipe, president of junior homeroom 215, receives the annual Christmas award for the best decorated homeroom.

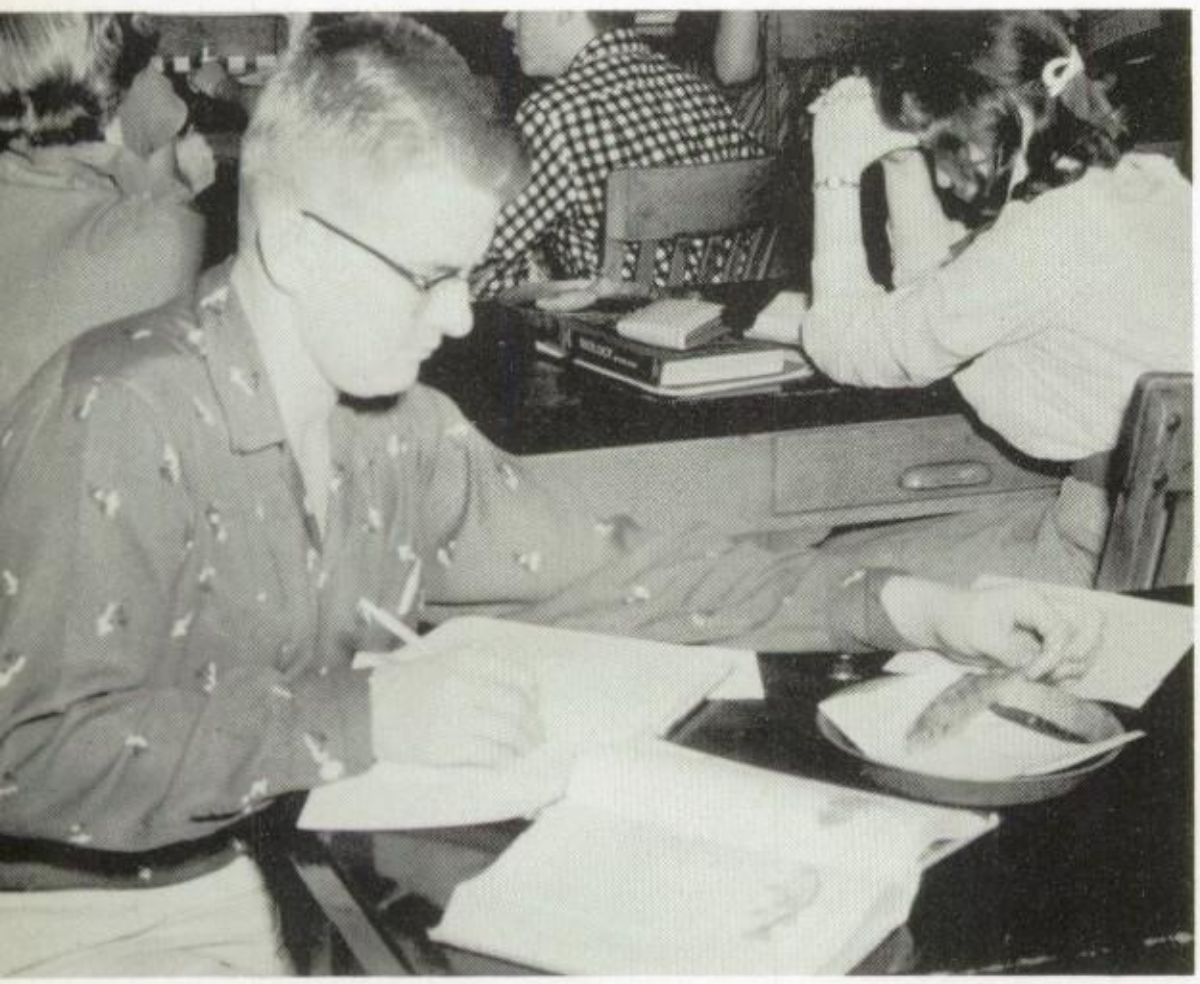
First Year In Senior High

Above—Sophomores got into the spirit of being in senior high by having their first class meeting in the cafeteria.

SOPHOMORES usually are a curious mixture of silliness and sophistication, carefreeness and capability. This year's gang was no exception. Of course, they were a little confused by the new and wonderful variety of activities and classes that awaited them in senior high. However, they began wholeheartedly to take advantage of the opportunities. The sophomore's Biology program was one of the bright spots on the assembly calendar. These youngsters rolled up their sleeves and pitched into the work of carrying a share of senior high responsibilities.

Having big responsibilities for their class are Thomas Tollinger, president; Jane Neely, treasurer; Michael Laucks, vice-president; and Linda Burg, secretary.



A project this year in biology was the dissecting of fish. Donald Henshaw gazes thoughtfully at his specimen before he goes to work.

A Carefree And Happy Group

Above—Joanne Gemmill was crowned May Queen of Homeroom 207 last year by Ronald Golden, homeroom president.

The sophomore's biology assembly was a science quiz contest. Here quizmaster Thomas Tollinger questions James Melhorn. The contest ended with the girls thrashing the fellows 1,441 to 1,100.

Everything So New This Year

From many different and wide-spread regions came one hundred and eighty-three shy Freshmen. They were confused, at first, by the new routine, the many interesting organizations and extra-curricular activities, as well as by the huge school itself. However, after having made a crowd of new friends, their shyness vanished and they joined wholeheartedly in the fun. There were many new and strange classes this year, but the Freshmen took to these like a duck takes to water. And, after they become familiar with the new clothing fads, the various expressions, the new teachers, and the many other customs and habits, it became rather difficult to distinguish them as Freshmen. In the next three years, they are due for much more fun and added, lasting friendships at Red Lion Area High School.

Vigorous Young Lions

Thirsty eighth grade officers gather around the fountain in the park . . . Kay Smith, treasurer; Larry Smith, president; Susan Smith, vice-president; Susan Bowles, secretary.

Being "old hands" in the junior high school, the eighth graders lived up to the expectations and went in whole-heartedly for every activity and sport they could possibly enter. These young cubs were great joiners. With their co-workers, the seventh grade, they won the junior high prize for their float in the pep parade. At every football, basketball, and baseball game they cheered the team on to victory. At the high school dances or wherever there was a crowd, you could depend upon seeing the vivacious eighth graders. The girls had their first crushes on handsome teachers while the boys were busily making mischief. During the year they learned to keep their noise down and their spirits up; while they looked forward to becoming freshmen.

Stephany Smith and Billy Freeman take an interest in world affairs during their geography class while some of their classmates seem to have their minds elsewhere.

Cubs With Spirit And Pep

Seventh grade officers discuss their new problems in the park . . . Louise Workinger, president; Ronald Arnold, vice-president; Carolyn Flinchbaugh, secretary; Richard Stein, treasurer.

Eighty-six lively cubs in seventh grade were startled by the many changes that took place when they entered junior high school. Now, at last, they felt that they belonged. New classes with a new time schedule, activity periods, clubs, the honor roll, assemblies, dances, pep rallies, intramurals, were nothing but words that took life for them with startling suddenness. As these young inquisitive cubs scurried around the halls, they sometimes had a rather shy and scared look. But as time went by, they soon lost some of their shyness and pitched into school affairs with the spirit of 86 lively cubs. These game cubs made a name for themselves and fast became a real attribute to their school.

ACTIVITIES

ACTIVITIES

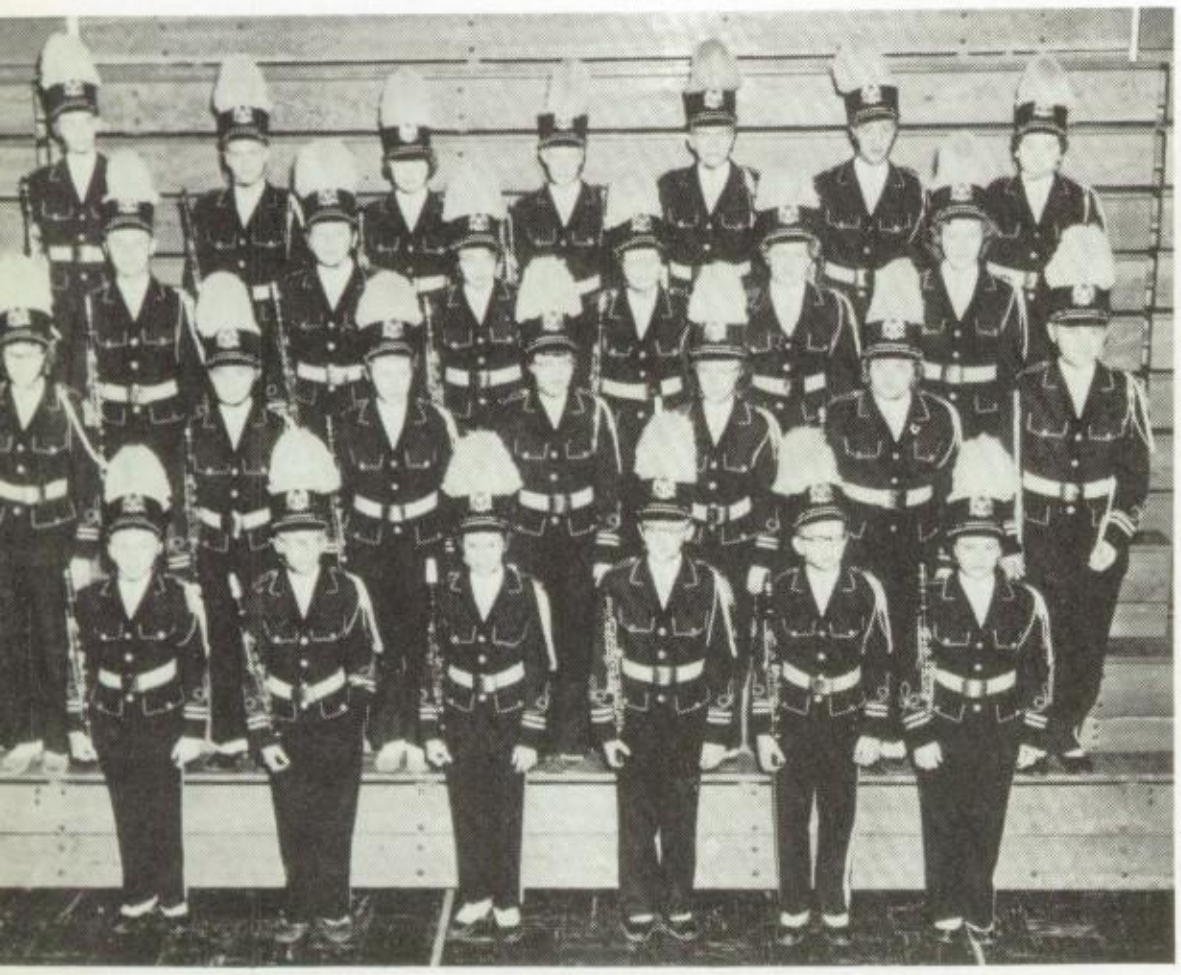
Ah yes, Red Lion certainly had the "cub clubs" and the activities. Those with a musical flair had a variety of musical organizations to join. There were glee clubs, bands, and an orchestra. The "literary lions" were on the Hilltop and Yearbook Staffs. The "shutter bug cubs" formed a Photography Club, which worked with the Yearbook Staff.

There were clubs for lions interested in magic, dramatics, library work, farming, dancing, homemaking, and student government.

Numerous activities were sponsored by the various clubs, which gave the power-packed cubs on the hill plenty to keep them busy.

In fact some of the cubs were in so many clubs and activities, I could never understand when they found time to study.

Stirring March Melodies . . . . . .



The Senior Band—One of the most colorful organizations at Red Lion Area High. A sight which we would all thrill to, was these musicians, dressed in their brand new gold and black uniforms, bearing shining brass instruments, and playing the familiar songs of our school. Many were the exciting adventures for its members—numerous bus trips, parades, marching practices and intricate formations on the football field. Never tiring but always pushing forward for improvement, were these "talented noise makers." Each member was as proud and thrilled to wear the school colors as the spectators were to view their many performances, and to lend an ear to the exciting melodies and familiar tunes of our school.

Twirlers And Toters

Good-looking, high-stepping majorettes, who twirled their way toward making the school proud of them, marched with the band all year. With their snappy routines, tricky dance steps, and silver batons flashing, our corps of majorettes is second to none. Cold, fall football games proved no hindrance to their unsurpassed twirling. This group was led by Dawn Burg, State Baton Twirling Champion. In front of the majorettes marched the color guard, proudly bearing and guarding the flags of our school and country. Smartly dressed, with big yellow plumes floating in the breeze, the color guard jauntily marched down the field.

Tooters And Tickling Fingers

DANCE BAND—Front: Donald Detweiler, Barry Reider, Buddy Fillmore, Robert Burg. Second: Ann Gross, Donald Frey, Ted Gemmill, Jay Keener, Darryl Gipe, David Gross, Tommy Tollinger, Michael Laucks.

Our twelve "swingsters" made their debut at the annual football dance in November after the big West York game. A more enthusiastic group of tooters would have been difficult to find. Red Lion Area High School is proud of this smooth working organization—The Dance Band.

The Accompanist Club, organized this fall, proved itself to be one of our more important clubs. It was the job of this organization to provide accompanists for our various choruses and glee clubs at their performances. These people were very energetic, and certainly did a fine piece of work. The accompanist club was an essential part of the entertainment field at Red Lion Area High.

Blending of Young Voices

The new director this year—Mr. Ronald F. Goodman, from Honesdale, Pa. A graduate of Susquehanna University, Mr. Goodman received a B. S. degree in Music Education.

Youthful voices could be heard blending in harmony in the south end of the building every Monday morning. These were the voices of our little cubs from seventh, eighth, and ninth grades—the Junior High Mixed Chorus. This energetic group practiced faithfully for its debut at the annual Night of Music.

Serious minded musicians composed the high school orchestra. Playing at the Commencement exercises caused a few happy underclassmen to miss some classes while they practiced. Although they were seldom seen, one could often hear them practice on Thursday morning during activity period in the music room. Perfect relaxation was guaranteed for all those who listened to these musical wizards.

Beautiful music, with an occasional squeak or squawk, heard from one end of the building to the other, indicated the junior band was practicing again. Although the cubs who were members of this band were just learning, some of them played with the senior band at football games. This training period helps them to become members of the senior organization.

Melody Plus Harmony

A visitor to Red Lion Area High School, when walking through the halls on a Monday morning, would hear, coming from the cafeteria, the voices of some of our cubs raised in song. If this visitor questioned anyone about the singers, he would have found out they were the members of the senior high mixed chorus. Those cubs were no doubt preparing for the Night of Music that was held in May. The Mixed Chorus is open only to members of the tenth, eleventh, and twelfth grades. Mrs. Dorothy S. Adams is in charge of this group.

Echoing Here and There

On Tuesday our visitor would have heard a delightful blending of feminine voices . . . our GIRLS' CHORUS, practicing. This chorus was a sister-organization to the mixed chorus and was also under the direction of Mrs. Dorothy Adams. Tenth, eleventh, and twelfth grade girls were eligible, but no girl could belong to both the Girls' and the Mixed Chorus. This group sang at the Night of Music and for several special programs. Seventy-three lovely girls in their fancy dresses, singing so well, was really something to see and hear. But this didn't just happen! It took practice, practice, practice. We could certainly point with pride to our Girls' Chorus and say that it came from Red Lion.

Girls' Chorus starts the morning out with a rousing version ot "Lady of Spain."

DRAMATIC CLUB proved to be an excellent organization in which to display the various talents that the students possessed. It was an interesting sight to watch some of the colorful performances put on by talented members . . . singing, dancing, doing pantomime, and producing plays. The Club presented several assembly programs which proved interesting to faculty and students. Under the expert supervision of Mrs. Hilda Jackowick and Mr. Richard Baldwin, the Dramatic Club has added zest and interest to Red Lion High's roster of entertainment.

Two musicians perform for the members of the Dramatic Club. Could it be that these boys are on their way to stardom?

Lovers of Nature

Members of the Biology Club gather around an ingenious device that projects microscope slides on a screen, just like a movie film. Shown here are: Nancy Klinefelter, Nancy Henry, Beverly Hivner, Dixie Hoffmaster, and Terry Keesey.

A group of nature loving cubs, headed by Mr. Shoemaker, had BIOLOGY CLUB every Thursday morning . . . an unusually energetic looking group of scientists. Here they would discuss the intricacies of nature. Each year these cubs would sojourn to the farm show at Harrisburg to see that Biology is not just dissection of grasshoppers, but that it is a science that has to do with real life. This club was restricted to sophomores who took Biology, and they made their club period a very enjoyable and informative one.

JUNIOR RED CROSS COUNCIL . . . An organization with an aim to spread good will. The first project was the making of clever little favors to be placed on food trays at veterans hospitals, and cross word puzzles to help the veterans occupy their time. At Christmas time the home economics department and the Junior Red Cross co-operated in making cookies which were sent to Indiantown Gap.

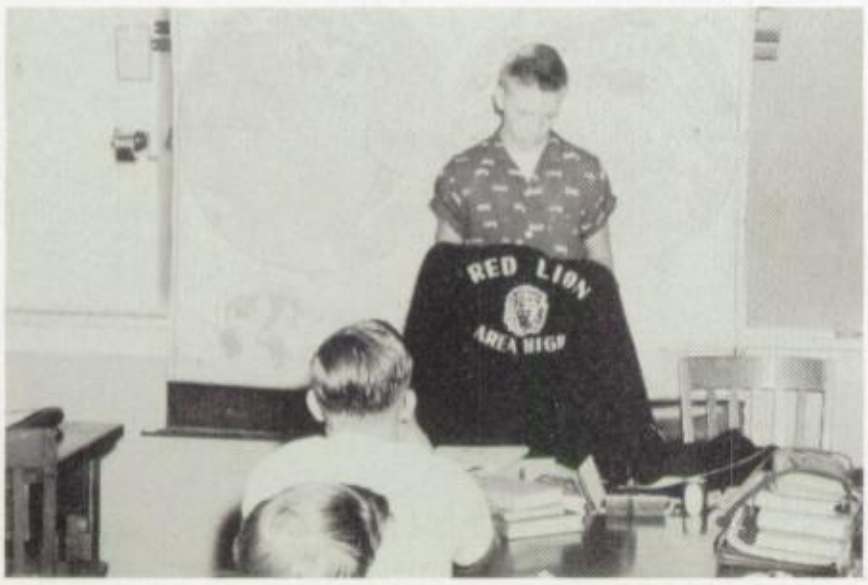
Government On a Small Scale



Robert Burg shows Student Council a jacket carried by local merchants. Later, the council voted to make it the official school jacket.

Amid the noise of talking and laughing the sound of a gavel was heard, and the twenty-five members of Red Lion Area High's STUDENT COUNCIL gave their undivided attention to Robert Burg, the council's president. Each Thursday morning the members met to discuss and try to solve the problems of the school. A suggestion box was set up in the library and was checked every week before the meeting. Many debates centered around these suggestions, such as the hall patrol; action having been taken immediately. A real governing body helps to make any organization run more smoothly.

Voting for student council president in the library. The whole school was in an unproar that election week. There was almost as much dissention as during an election of nation-wide importance.

Hilltop Staff

Lions with a nose for news made up the staff of the HILLTOP. It can truly be said that blood, sweat, toil, and tears went into each edition of the paper, which was published monthly. Every Tuesday the staffs met and the various departments worked on assignments. What could not be done in class was worked on outside of school. The junior journalists, who met with the senior staff members, got some pointers on the publication of a paper, and also lent a helping hand whenever needed. There was fun too . . . the Press Conference at Spring Grove and each person's suspense and pride when the paper came out.

Lion Staff

Before the school term was ended last year ideas were flying and plans were being tentatively made for the yearbook. All through the summer the staff worked industriously on their brain child, the Lion of 1955. Upon the return to school the staff members worked harder than ever. The make-up staff planned and drew and drew and planned, until finally the skeleton of the book emerged. The editorial staff frantically wrote and rewrote, dreaming up clever ideas and desperately trying to meet deadlines. Photographers shot picture after picture. The other departments, business and typing, gave hours of their time toward making the Lion a "finished product." Finally, after much worry, wear and tear, and discouraging moments, the Lion rolled off the press.

These smiling faces would lead one to believe that they didn't have a care in the world. James Favino, co-editor; Mr. Freeland Shaeffer, in charge of Photography; Mrs. Dorothy Bowers, adviser to the Lion; Wayne Zarfos, co-editor.

Members of the Magic Club have kept an eye on that old master of prestidigitation, Mr. Miller, advisor, and soon found that those tricks were not only easy but fun to do. Some of these cubs probably became nuisances at home, pestering their poor relatives and friends until they would sit and watch them make a coin disappear and reappear. Is doubtful that the students pictured here will take up magic as a vocation, yet they are enjoying themselves while finding out that the hand is quicker than the eye.

Robert Grim and Jerry Smeltzer turn an ordinary newspaper and a few colored handkerchiefs into an extremely baffling feat of magic for the amusement of their fellow club members.

Ace Photographers At Work

A new club on the list of school organizations, the PHOTOGRAPHY CLUB, got off to a flying start this year. This club was formed to promote interest and activity among the amateur "shutterbugs" at Red Lion. Mr. Freeland Shaffer, sponsor, is also faculty advisor for the Lion photography. He and his cubs can usually be found around school, camera in hand, looking for a good shot, or in the darkroom developing and enlarging that picture. Most cubs find photography an interesting and rewarding hobby.

Eight happy dancing girls entertain at the Christmas assembly.

A regular day's session for members of the Dancing club.

One of the highlights of the Christmas assembly was a charming ballet, "The Dance of the Sugar Plum Fairy", performed by several of the girls from the DANCING CLUB. These girls did an almost professional job under the expert tutelage of Miss Anita Winings. Other club members were quite proud and possibly a teeny bit envious of them. However, this club produced some good chorus lines for our assemblies, and gave many girls the fundamentals of good ballroom dancing. With grace and ease they were able to do everything from the waltz to the mambo.

Many of our athletically inclined cubs found an outlet for their excess energy in the TUMBLING CLUB. Mr. Ronald Fitzkee, the faculty advisor, long ago guided this group past ordinary somersaults and back flips. In a short time they performed feats that would put a professional tumbler to shame. True, many of the youngsters were a little worried and maybe they went through their paces a little slowly the first few times, but they soon got over that. This was one of our finest clubs, which helped to build the bodies of its members as well as their minds.

The F.H.A., a club consisting of girls interested in the fine art of homemaking. Mrs. Audrey McLauglin taught them the basic fundamentals and gave them some time-saving ideas. These girls entered competition at the York Fair and brought home a first, a second, and a third prize for some of their handiwork.

The F.F.A. was one of the most constructive organizations with Mr. Henry Givler as faculty advisor. Stressing agricultural leadership as well as co-operation and citizenship, these cubs learned the basic fundamentals of farming as well as many tricks of the trade. The highlight of this year's activities was the entrance into competition at the York Fair, winning four blues, two seconds, three thirds, a fourth and a fifth.

Right . . . The show is over; Guy Kopp and Joe Alloway are putting scenery away.

Supplying the props, setting the stage, adjusting lights, and pulling the curtain at our plays and assemblies were the tasks allotted to the STAGE CREW. This was quite a list of duties and required many busy after-school hours. While this back-stage action was often left to go unapplauded, those who took part in a program of any kind realized all too well the importance of this unseen organization. When the last curtain closed and all the scenery had been dismantled and packed away, Mr. Dalton Landis and his boys breathed a well-earned sigh of relief and felt the thrill of having been able to participate in all major productions.

An Eye For Publicity

Above—One of the many activities of the Club was was painting posters to be placed in the halls advertising a coming event.

The ADVERTISING CLUB, sponsored by Miss Espenshade, was kept busy all year. These cubs designed and made many of the colorful posters seem on the bulletin boards in the halls. They also did all the advance advertising for the dances and plays. The commercial students not only derived much enjoyment from this club period, but also secured valuable information on publicity and advertising . . . a great help to them in their future vocations.

Surrounded by thousands of books and magazines, the members of the LIBRARY CLUB, under the direction of Mrs. Hilda Shermeyer, helped to file cards, charged and discharged books at the desk, shelved books, and delivered overdue slips to the homerooms for their forgetful classmates. Approximately 106 books went through the hands of these members and Mrs. Shermeyer each day. This group also sponsored a Spring tea for members and invited guests.

Objects d'Art

Below . . . Proud elementary grade pupils take their parents to the cafeteria to see their works of art on display.

Miss Florence Spangler points out pieces done by her 4th, 5th, and 6th grade students.

Spring came, and with it the annual ART EXHIBIT. After hard work in their art classes and during activity period advanced art classes, the students' artistic works were placed on display to be praised by guests. Walls of the upper hall and cafeteria were covered with pictures with subject matter varying from Eskimos to health posters. The art room, which was the center of interest, exhibited displays in ceramics, leatherwork, and glassware. Thus the cubs ranging from young kindergarteners to ancient seniors became the Rembrandts of the evening.

Ronald Wolf, Charles Poet, Jay Myers, Jane McGuigan, and Betty Foster admire the glassware hand-painted by the advanced art classes.

Worry And Stage Fright . . .

The boys pack hurriedly when they learn of the arrival of Mr. Coburn, one of the girl's father.

Our young hopefuls practice the death scene from "Mostly Murder," written by Mr. Kenny.

The class of '55 presented "Out of The Frying Pan" for its JUNIOR PLAY. It was a hilarious comedy about the struggles of young hopefuls trying for a break on the stage. Six youngsters banded together for financial reasons and rented the apartment directly above Mr. Arthur Kenny, a producer who was about to cast his new play, "Mostly Murder." The kids threw a fake murder scene that was so realistic that one of the neighbors called the police. Miss Marie Keeports and Mrs. Hilda Jackowick directed the play and really turned a gang of green, untutored juniors into a group of professional Thespians.

This year, encouraged by the success of "Out of the Frying Pan," the class of '55 presented for its SENIOR PLAY, "Meet Corliss Archer." The aid of Miss Mary Farlling and Mr. Richard Baldwin was, of course, invaluable. The plot centered around Corliss Archer, a typical teenager, and her comic adventures with a fictitious diary that practically destroyed domestic peace and quiet at the Archer's. The sudden arrival of a grouchy, nosey spinster complicated matters much more. Then confusion reigned supreme when Corliss was rushed to the hospital for an emergency appendectomy! "Meet Corliss Archer" was presented delightfully and was seen by a record crowd.

Nedra Grim, head of the makeup committee, gets Lynne ready for the stage while Miss Farlling watches.

The Grand Finale

In the spring the musical organizations had a chance to splurge on one last big performance, the NIGHT OF MUSIC. The choral and instrumental groups worked throughout the year, combining their efforts to present an evening full of music for the townspeople.

A Real Revue

Athletic skill of the greatest perfection was exhibited at the annual GYM REVUE. After much hard practice in their gym classes and after school, the agile cubs, chosen from grades seven through twelve, performed with their brisk marching, graceful waltzing, and precision exercises. These were only a few of the stunts they executed for their friends and parents before the evening was brought to a grand finish.

An Annual Fall Event

Sixteen senior football players were crowned at the annual football dance after a victory over West York.

During intermission, the G.A.A. girls staged a hilarious mock football game.

At the end of the football season the G.A.A. sponsored the annual FOOTBALL DANCE. This year, instead of crowning one football king, the G.A.A. decided to honor all the senior members of the team. G.A.A. president, Kay Downs, crowned sixteen seniors and gave each individual a miniature football.

Cupid Reigns Supreme

Cupid's Frolic was held in February in honor of Saint Valentine . . . the VALENTINE DANCE, sponsored by the juniors. The highlight of the evening was the crowning of the king and queen of hearts. Dan Cupid made a rather quick exit after an excellent performance with his mighty arrow. Not to be outdone by the oldsters, the junior high crowned a price and princess of hearts at the Festival of Hearts . . . a fine program and a very enjoyable evening.

Our cubs went all out for extra activities at Christmas time. The French class had a feast of French bread, roquefort cheese, and pate de fois gras to ring in the Yuletide season. The Dramatic Club put on a special Christmas assembly, and there was caroling in the library. The little lions on the yearbook staff were also busy decorating the activity office where "Tales of the Lion" originated.

. . . Invades Red Lion High

Stars hanging from the ceiling; drawings of angels, nativity scenes, and picturesque snow covered villages on the blackboards; gaily ornated trees with masses of brightly decked packages beneath them . . . all this prevailed through the classrooms just before Christmas. Days before the rooms were judged, busy cubs worked diligently so that their rooms might win the annual contest.

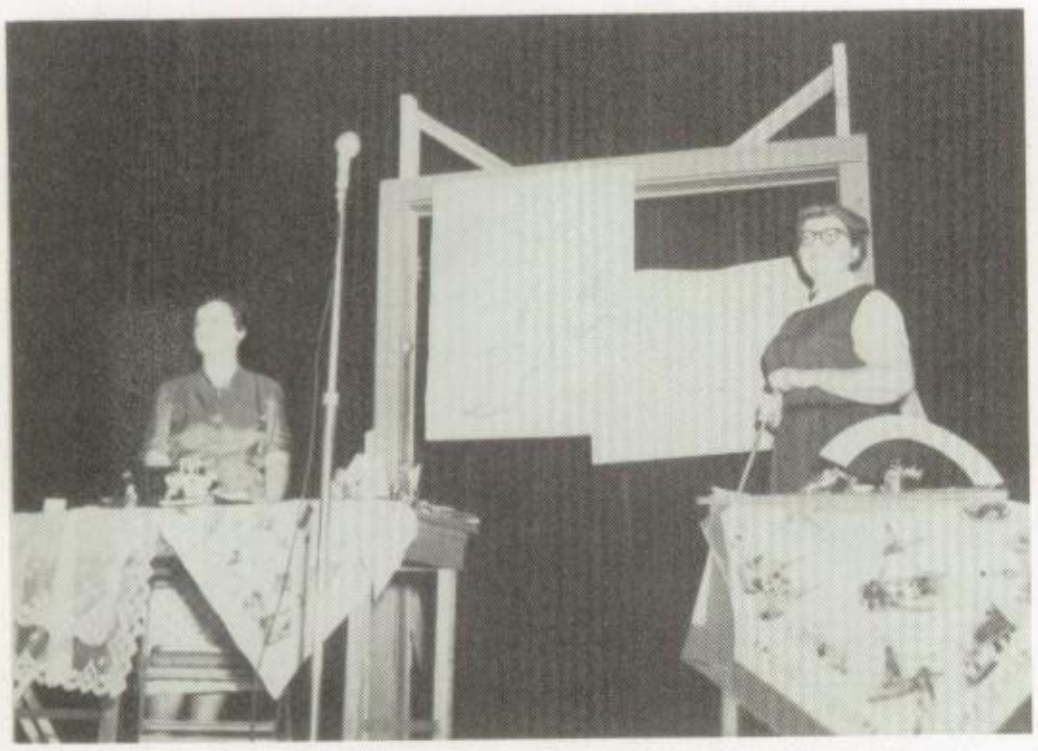
New And Different Acts . . .



Miss Jeanette Espenshade and Miss Marie Keeports recount the experiences of the trip they took to Europe last summer.

Red Lion students and faculty members greatly enjoyed the SPECIAL ASSEMBLY PROGRAMS provided by outside entertainers. Among them was the Fastofsky Concert Trio which appeared as a substitution for the Scottish Highlanders. During the Christmas season Donald Warner, a graduate of Red Lion High, returned to play many popular numbers on his Hammond organ. Dr. Douglas Silverton, noted traveler, delivered an educational and inspirational lecture. The Bonelli family entertained in January; the boys, ages 9 and 11, being the youngest American marimba players. Miss Marie Keeports and Miss Jeanette Espenshade introduced us to a bit of the old country in the program on their trip to Europe during the summer of '54.

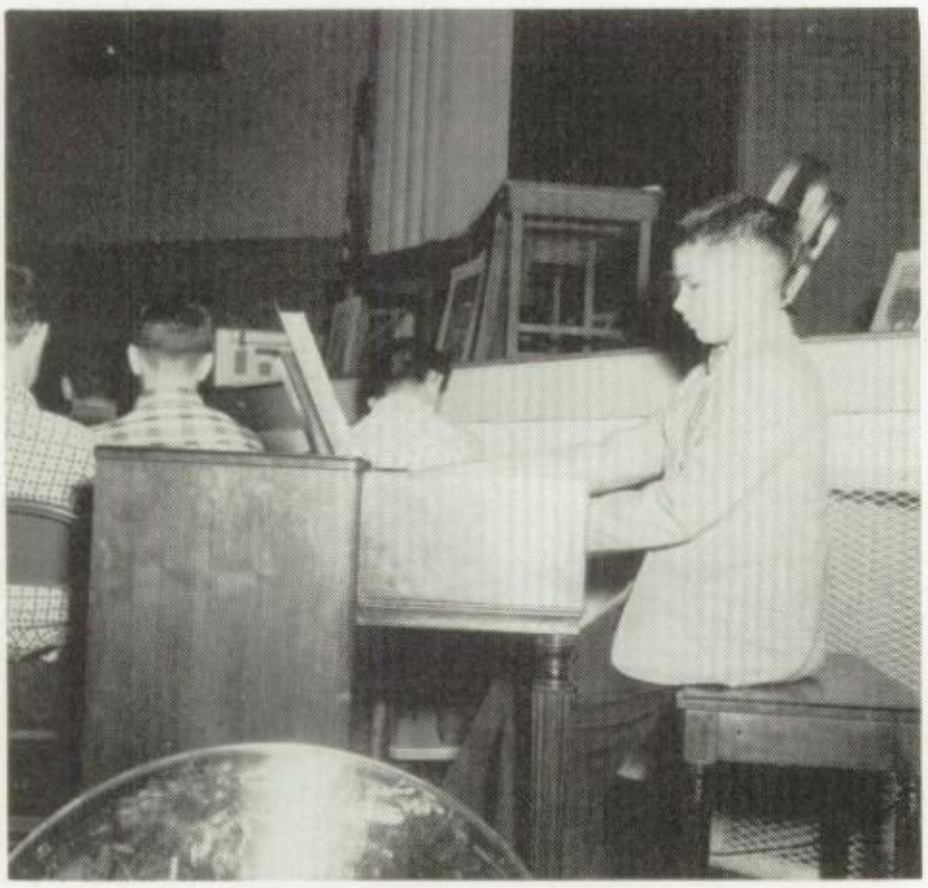
Planned and Produced . . .



Not all the Friday morning ASSEMBLY PROGRAMS were staged by professionals. The students put on many of them, and they did a grand job of it, too. Hilltop and Lion staffs started the ball rolling in the fall by acquainting the student body with our school publications. Various clubs . . . Dramatic, Junior Red Cross, F.H.A., and Biology played an important role in sponsoring assemblies. This year the foreign language classes had a share . . . interesting programs by the Latin and French classes.

Cubs on the go . . . traveling here and there to attend some big event. Quite a large group from the music department attended the annual FORENSICS last year at Williamsport, Pa. These contestants made an excellent record in competition with other schools. The cubs from the Hilltop and Lion staffs attended a PRESS CONFERENCE at Spring Grove, coming home a little wiser after listening to the troubles of other school staffs. Red Lion is proud of its cubs, and the fine way they represent their school while away from home.

Showing Fine School Spirit

A big election, complete with campaign speeches, bands, and secret balloting, a pep rally before the West York football game, and a sock hop, were a few of the many activities sponsored by the STUDENT COUNCIL. This year, by hard work and effort, this group secured the long awaited school jackets, a project worked on by past councils. Members of the council guided students through the maze of sometimes crowded halls and helped to make our school a better place in which to be in 1955.

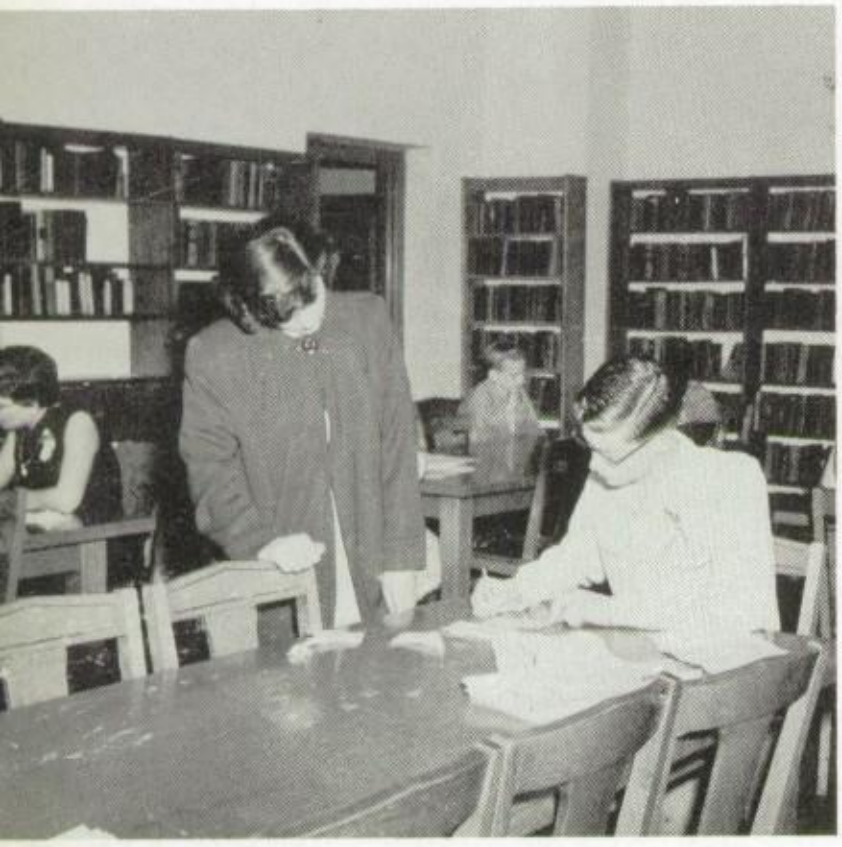
The Council's new president, Robert Burg, shown giving his campaign speech.

Student Council Secretaries are also elected by the student body. Ann Taylor (right) won over Margo Stein and Deanna Barnhart.

Nominees for the Student Council presidency, James Favino, Rodney Tyson, and Robert Burg cast their votes on election day.

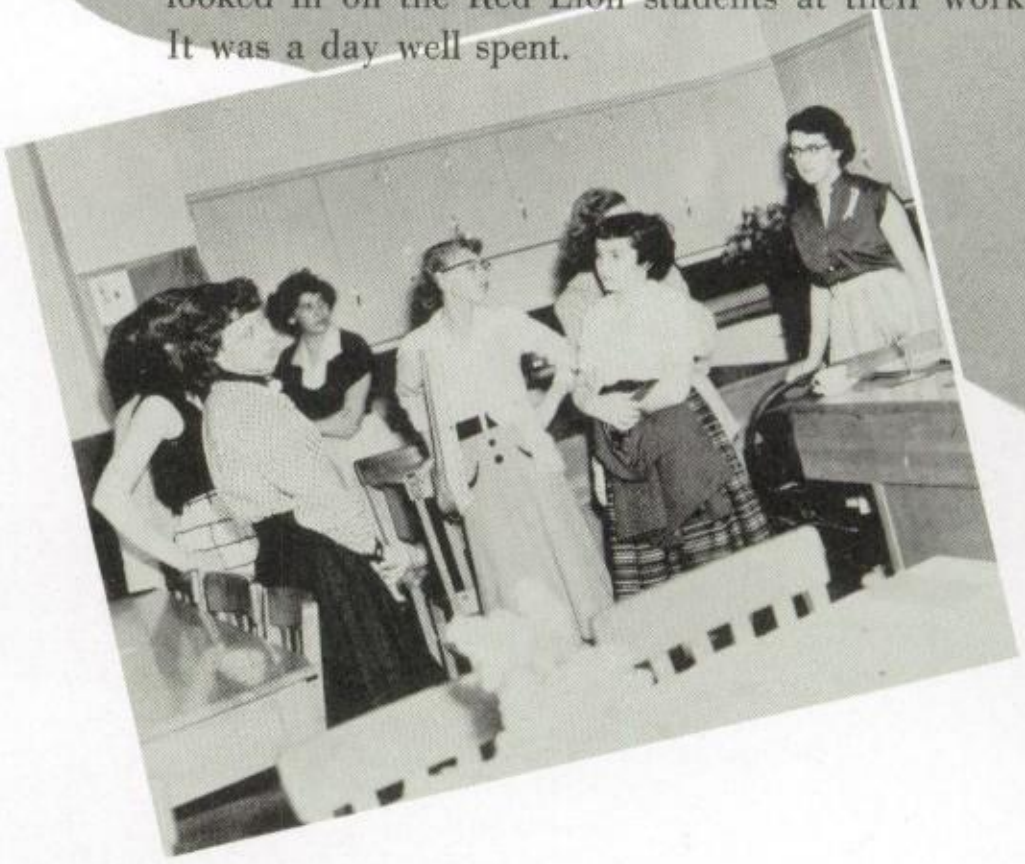
Great Expectations

Some boys from the Camp Tuckahoe Order of the Arrow Indian Dance Team performed for the students. This group later was acclaimed the Champion Indian Dance Team of 1954.



Ned Heindel registers a prospective student on Orientation Day.

Early one Thursday morning in late April there appeared at the high school busloads of young, mischievous eighth grade cubs from the surrounding areas. Since this was ORIENTATION DAY, they first spent their time looking around and becoming acquainted with students from other schools. By the time this group was ready to witness the assembly program, arranged by the Red Lion students, they were talking and laughing with everyone. After the noon meal and some recreation, they were ready for a trip around the school. Guided by National Honor Society members they looked in on the Red Lion students at their work. It was a day well spent.



A guided tour of our Home Ec. suite proved very interesting to the girls.

But on that night, after having donned caps and gowns, last year's seniors began to look back, and they realized just how fast the last four years had gone. They thought of all the great times they had had and all the friends they had made. But commencement isn't only a time for reminiscing, and those cubs soon began looking ahead to a more serious future life.

Commencement . . . a time of mixed emotions. Notice the expressions; some smiling, others pensive, and some almost in tears.

SPORTS

Being a Lion has some disadvantages, for long sharp teeth, while very necessary in the jungle games, could not be used in the athletic activities of modern school life. So my counterparts were the many fine athletes who proudly wore our gold and black colors in football, baseball, golf, baseketball, and track.

You see, it was the job of the school to turn out cubs who improved physically as well as mentally. The coaches would take our young cubs, many of whom were awkward and nervous, and try to turn them into great teams. What a task! What a task!

Sports were an important part of school life. The bleachers were always filled to capacity with our little lions cheering the teams on to victory. Their co-operation was appreciated.

Now, dear readers, if you will turn the following pages, you will find a more detailed discussion of each of these and pictures of what really happened.

The Lions Leap Into Action . . . . .

"Practice makes perfect," or so the old adage says. Eugene Godfrey, Charles Grim, and Ronald Golden must have taken this to heart, for they certainly appear to be working hard here.

Our football season was one of the best Red Lion had seen in a long time. Morale was at a new high; the crowds were enthusiastic and encouraging; the weather was wonderful for football; and the team had a nice percentage of wins. The long hours the team spent in practicing and getting in shape certainly paid off in the end. The last three games: Biglerville, Elizabethtown, and West York, showed that we had a rejuvenated team—coming back with all wins after three defeats. The West York game brought home the trophy presented by Mr. Poff and Mr. Moore. Credit must be given to the fine coaching of Mr. Sample, Mr. Haney, and Mr. Fitzkee. Center, end, tackle, guard . . . all played hard and fast and most certainly gave the excited fans their money's worth.

A tense crowd . . . then bedlam, as the teams pile up and confusion is created during the Columbia game.

Hoop Hopes

The '54-'55 BASKETBALL squads went onto the hardwood in the first home games with Central and right smack into their first defeats. The West York game at West York proved to be a close one but a loss. Burdened with their second defeat, the Varsity, J. V.'s, and Jr. High teams met Dover and all walked off with honors. Red Lion defeated Susquehannock but the Alumni and Spring Grove games were one point leads for the visitors. At Kennard-Dale the game ended with a minus 6 for Red Lion. With the last half of the schedule left, Red Lion still has a chance to call it a winning season. Sorry we couldn't finish the season but we have to go to press.

Batter Up Or Batter Out . . . . .

Red Lion is still bragging about her 1954 BASEBALL CHAMPIONS. Our cubs, with much enthusiasm and determination, bagged the Northern Division County Championship, aided by Mr. Hangen's invaluable coaching. Yes, they had a wonderful record, ten wins and only one loss. But that performance was not only glory for the team; the whole school could claim some part of that victory. Those who faithfully followed the games to cheer for our team helped to win that championship too. We hope that the teams that follow will be as honest, as sportsmanlike, and will go as far as the team of '54.

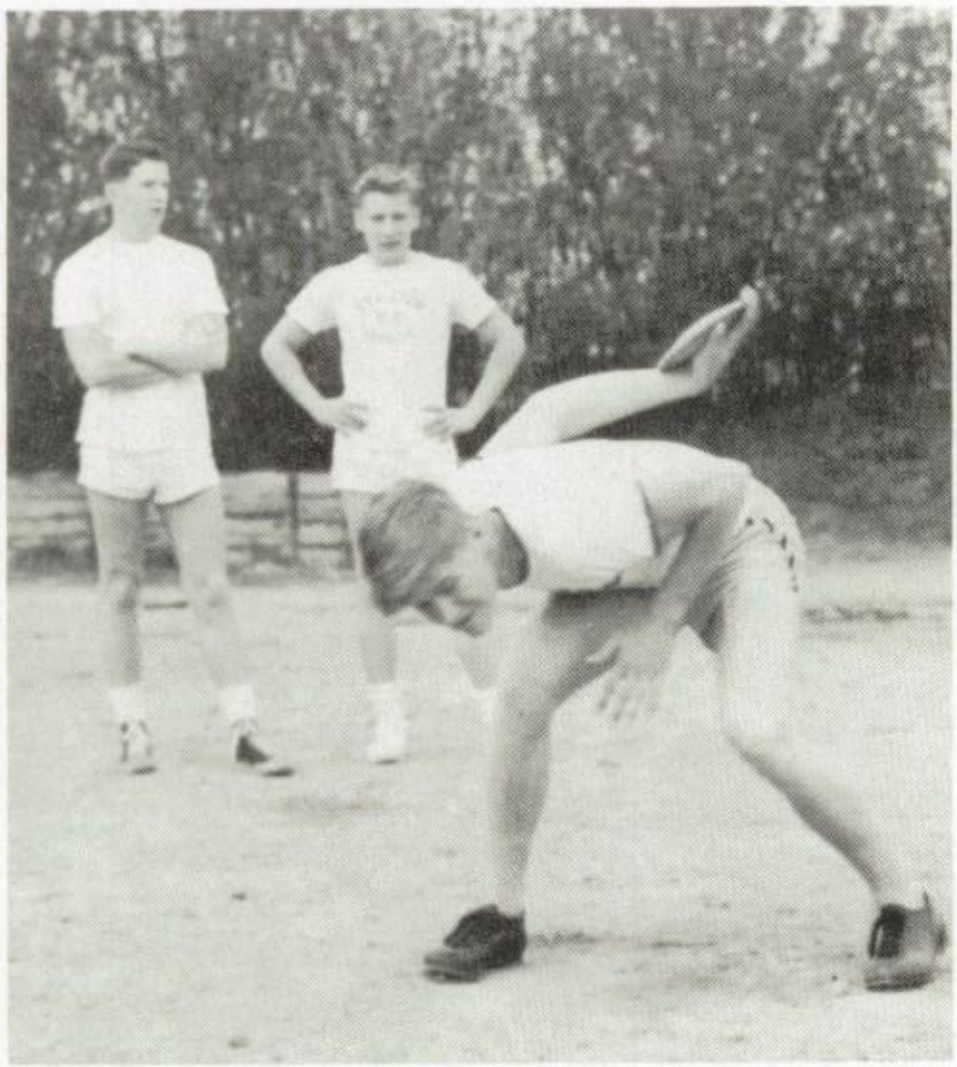
Our Cubs Do Well



One of the most impressive and exciting sporting events in which Red Lion participates is the track and field meets. In 1954, our lions entered four of these meets and captured two first place awards, one second place, and one third place. Not a bad showing at all! Those cubs spent many long, hard hours after school, hard at work but their record shows that this time certainly wasn't wasted. Coach Harold Myers can point with honest pride to the job he and his twenty-three cubs have done.

Teeing Off For a Hole In One

When springtime rolled around, Mr. Nitchkey could usually be found at the Red Lion Country Club fairway with the seven cubs on the golf team. These cubs were all enthusiastic and capable, and they did a really wonderful job. The highlight of the last season was their 11½-3½ victory over East Berlin in an exhibition match. Golf, as a sport in our school, celebrated its fifth birthday this year.

Brains And Brawn

The goal of all our athletic cubs was the N.A.S.S., the NATIONAL ATHLETIC SCHOLARSHIP SOCIETY. In order to be eligible, one had to be outstanding in a sport of his choice and had to earn a varsity letter. Admittance to this society was a great honor. The N.A.S.S. members were chosen not only for ability displayed in the field of sports, but also ability displayed in the classroom. The boys looked forward to being inducted into this society and they had every right to be proud of their achievement.

Noontime Activities . . .

INTRAMURALS . . . the sports program, over the noon hour. Each homeroom had a team which participated in the various sports. The teams were awarded two points for each win and five points for each championship. At the end of the year the points were totaled and the highest senior and junior high homerooms received a plaque. The girls played basketball, softball, kick ball, and volley ball; the boys participated in football, basketball, wrestling, and volley ball. Both boys and girls took part in the foul shooting contest, our champions going to York for further competition. Sometimes, instead of sports, there was dancing for everyone. The entire program was greatly appreciated by the students.

A balmy day—and Red Lion students flock to the park to watch an intramural softball game.

Linda Fregm, in an intramural kick ball game, is caught by the camera as she sends a fast ball toward the plate.

WRESTLING . . . one of the newer exciting intramural sports. Our local grapplers might not be ready for television, but they're on their way.

Feminine World of Sports

Sporting one of the largest memberships of any organization was the G.A.A. . . . GIRLS ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION. Senior high girls were eligible to join, and soon after school began, officers were elected and a busy schedule was put into action. Miss Nancy Mitchell and Miss Anita Winings, advisors for the organization, set up teams and tournaments for basketball, volleyball, and softball. Excitement ran high during the championship play-offs and the all-star games. Something new, inaugurated this year, was the training of girls who were interested in officiating at games. The "Lion's Big Night," the annual football dance, was sponsored by the G.A.A. . . . an outstanding event.

Cheering The Teams On

Right—Varsity Cheerleaders . . . always on hand to root for our team. Front to back: Patricia Smith, Peggy Curran, Reba Renoll, Kay Downs, Ruth Sprenkle, Sylvia Kinard, Nedra Slenker, and Ann Butcher.
Below—Our cheerleaders liven up the pep parade and rally on the eve of the West York game.

Contributing greatly to the thrill of all the games with their pep and vigor were the CHEERLEADERS. These girls with as much volume as they could muster, led the school cheers and lent zest and color to all our games. This club was made up of a group of girls from which a smaller group was chosen as the cheerleading squad. The other members continued practicing in a club period with the hope of being chosen as cheerleaders next year. Many victories were won with the aid of this group, and their efforts will net results in future contests.

OUR PATRONS

Here's to our town . . . celebrating its seventy-fifth anniversary, its diamond jubilee! And here's to our loyal backers—those laudable, philanthropic lions who gave so generously so that this tale could be kept, told, and retold to future generations of cubs!

Every senior, armed with pad and pencil, made the rounds early in the fall. They called on all their friends and relatives and told them about the '55 Lion. I was tremendously excited when I heard how many folk came to the foreground as patrons for our yearbook. After all, this is the first time any of my tales have ever been published.

A "thank you" goes out to all those wonderful people and to the cubs in school. We included the names of patrons in this section of our book because we hoped everyone would see their names and realize that our friends are with us to the end.

Finis

The old lion straightened up, took a deep, deep breath, and looked around him. The oldest grandcub was usually the last to doze off, but even he was sound asleep. The lion leaned back and sighed as his thoughts roamed to his youth. He thought of many marvelous things he had forgotten to tell the youngsters until now. He laughed as he thought of a funny incident when he was a sophomore; but a tear came to his eye when he remembered commencement. After a while he fell asleep, and from his expression, one could tell he was having pleasant dreams. The old lion and his staff hope you have enjoyed our book, "Tales of the Lion" because it really is the story of the class of '55.
